Dr. Joanne Stafford Mortimer, Professor of History

Twenty-five years of enthusiastic and dedicated service is perhaps the best way to characterize Dr. Joanne Mortimer's career at Muhlenberg College. Arriving at Muhlenberg in 1957, Dr. Mortimer was among the first women to be incorporated into Muhlenberg's faculty. Throughout her career at Muhlenberg Dr. Mortimer has served on many faculty committees, and in 1969 was honored with the Good Teaching Award. This year she has played a major role in the organization of Muhlenberg's celebration of 25 years of coeducation. Students know her best for her dynamic command of the classroom, and her ability to add life to all periods of European History. It is with this in mind that the 1983 CIARLA wishes to extend a well-deserved thanks to an outstanding professor.

Dr. Charles E. Mortimer, Professor of Chemistry

Coming to Muhlenberg in 1950, Dr. Charles Mortimer began a career marked by continual service and successful achievement that has spanned 33 years. Dr. Mortimer has served the College faithfully through membership on countless number of faculty and college committees. He has been honored with the Good Teaching Award. Dr. Mortimer also served as Pre-Med Advisor from 1962 until 1976. In addition to teaching General Chemistry, Dr. Mortimer, in collaboration with Dr. Joanne Mortimer, designed and taught a course in the history of science. To his students he is perhaps best known as "the man who wrote THE book". On the occasion of his retirement from Muhlenberg College, the 1983 CIARLA takes the opportunity to acknowledge the many contributions of Dr. Mortimer both to his field and to the maintainance of academic excellence at Muhlenberg College.

Muhlenberg College traces its origins to the Allentown Seminary, which was a teachers' school founded in 1848. This non-denominational Christian school was located in Trout Hall, and opened with only four students. It grew quickly, however, and by 1853, enrollment was 202. The institution did not officially become a college under Pennsylvania state law until 1864, when its name was changed to the Allentown Collegiate and Military Institute. Apparently the new school's emphasis on military training was unpopular, because, only three years later, the institute closed, to reopen as Muhlenberg College. Muhlenberg was officially christened on May 21, 1867, under its first president, the Reverend Frederick Augustus Muhlenberg, D.D. (the great-grandson of Henry Melchier Muhlenberg, founder of the Lutheran Church in America, and the man for whom Muhlenberg College was named).

Muhlenberg remained at Fourth and Walnut Streets until 1905, when the College purchased the land on which the campus is currently situated, and built Ettinger and Berks Hall. At this time there were only ten faculty and 95 students. Ettinger contained not only offices and classrooms, but also the library. But the college was growing; by 1929, the faculty had increased to 32, and the student body to 438. In addition, about 900 students attended the Extension School, a program similar to today's Evening College. To accommodate this growth, the Library, Science Building, and Chapel were all built during the second half of the 1920's.

Muhlenberg continued to grow gradually over the next ten years. West Hall was added as a freshman dormitory when Muhlenberg acquired the building from Allentown Preparatory School in 1939. The administrative staff was increased by the addition of a Vice-President, Dean of Students, and Dean of Freshmen. But during the 1940's the College experienced several shocks, first when enrollment plunged as a result of the Second World War; and after the war, when veterans returned to finish their education. To add to the strain of coping with these conditions, a fire in Ettinger on Memorial Day, 1947, destroyed the roof and third floor of the building. But the College survived. Ettinger was repaired, and by 1953, the campus was once again in the process of expansion, this time by the construction of Memorial Hall.

1958 WOMEN ARRIVE

The 1957 CIARLA marks the end of an era, and the beginning of a new Muhlenberg. During a remarkably short period of time, the transition at the College has taken place to meet the demands of modern society. Education has been expanded to facilitate co-education at "Berg".

To the Class of 1957 the innovation of co-education has loomed as an improvement toward the future generations at the College. The 1957 CIARLA does not belong to the new generation of male and female classes. Perhaps this book can be called the last of the old school. To the masculine group who went through West Hall under the guidance of "Haps", and then on through three additional years of pleasurable experiences, this book is presented. We hope the following pages bring back a few memories of the "good old times".

ERA BEGINS

In the Fall of 1957 the first coeds arrived at Muhlenberg. Their arrival was accompanied by that of Heimtraut Dietrich, the new Dean of Women. Heimtraut Dietrich brought with her a strict set of ideas as to the conduct of coeds on a college campus. "Freedom" would not be the order of the day. The women students would face such restrictions as curfews, bedchecks, and dress codes. Skirt lengths were to fall below the knee. Blue jeans were not to be worn in public. All students were required to dress for dinner. But there was one thing Dietrich could not obstruct — the hazing of freshmen women (as can be seen above and to the left).

It did not take the coeds long to intergrate themselves into campus life. Women joined the WEEKLY and CIARLA staffs in the first year. In 1964 women held editorial positions for the CIARLA, and in 1965 the WEEKLY had its first woman editor-in-chief. 1970 saw the election of the first woman as Student Body President. Accompanying the addition of women to the Muhlenberg campus was a period of growth that continues today. New dormitories have been built: Benfer Hall, Prosser Hall, and most recently MacGregor Village. Muhlenberg has also seen the addition of the J. Conrad Seegers Union, and the Center for the Arts.

1983 marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of coeducation at Muhlenberg College. In celebration, the College hosted a year of events. In November four women alumni returned and spoke of the relevance of ERA and the growth of women in politics. The year's events culminated in April with SYMPOSIUM: WOMEN IN THE EIGHTIES which addressed such topics as women in politics; women and poverty; women and work; and women and technology. It is appropriate here to give thanks to Dr. Carol Richards, Dr. Joanne Mortimer, and Dr. Ann Wonsiewicz-Schlecht, whose efforts made this year's celebration possible.

COPOPULATION

Life at Muhlenberg has changed greatly since 1957. It is no longer a case of two population, male and female, trying to study at the same institution. In 1983 we see one population living, working, and studying together in the same environment, many times for the same goals.

Above: A familiar greet-ing as we return each fall.

Remember
And you won't step on the scraps
Of this familiar sidewalk:
The spine of our displaced maternal town
Whose name we took in vain
And left in humility.

Right: Widow Brown's is always a favorite choice when Mom and Dad come to take you out for "real food."

For those of us who leave Muhlenberg and Allentown to start a new phase in life, Allentown will always bring back many memories. Years after graduation we will look back and remember: waiting for the Domino's Pizza man at 2am; weekly trips to the Farmer's Market, and trying to figure out an illegible Lanta Bus schedule.

PHYSICS

The Physics department is in the process of establishing a Solid State Physics Laboratory. This past spring, Dr. Robert F. Milligan is teaching a course in solid state, the first time such a course has been offered at Muhlenberg. Last summer Dr. Milligan received a grant from the Office of Naval Research to study the electronic structure of transition metal impurities in silicon. The research was conducted in the laboratory of Professor George Watkins of the Sherman Fairchild Laboratory at Lehigh University. This research as well as research conducted at Bell Laboratories, Murray Hill, N.J. in 1981 has resulted in several publications for Dr. Milligan. Dr. John MacCarthy has had two recent publications relating to his research in biophysics. They appear in Chemical Physics Letters, July 1982, p. 89 and J. Chemical Physics, Aug. 1982, p. 77.

Also during this academic year, six students were involved in independent study projects that included digital signal processing, optical Holography, experimental modern physics, and modeling virus replication.

MATHEMATICS

The Math department received a PEW foundation grant to upgrade their computer facilities, so they have added three Apple 2 microcomputers, and hope to get a graphics terminal and a network to bring the microcomputers on line. The department created math and computer science minors, hoping to get Computer Science approved as a major in the near future. They added new courses in operating systems, structured Pascal, data base management, data structures, computer organization, and methods for computer science.

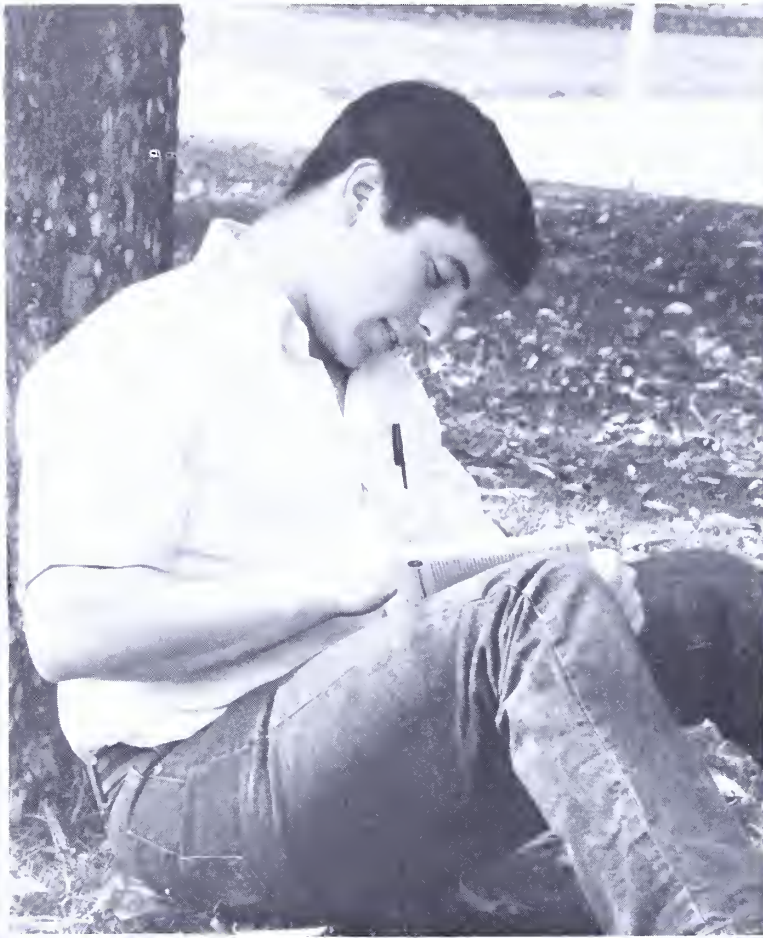

"Mathematics is the link between the arts and sciences. As the basic tool for quantitative analysis, it has practical applications in Chemistry and Physics. Yet Mathematics is an art. The ability to reason, learned by patiently proving mathematical theory, is basic to effective communication of ideas in all areas of knowledge. Mathematics is universal, yet particular, applicable, yet theoretical. Mathematics is beautiful".

he Business, Accounting and Economics Departments submitted contributions in research, theory, publications, etc. As the trend of the times—the business slump and spiraling inflation has gained widespread interest and concern to businessmen, economists and accountants alike. Businesses that once flourished are folding, affecting national and international economics—the economic man faces hard times ahead. The professors in the departments made such contributions as “The Malthusian Ghost and Economic Exorcism” in Key Issues in Population and Food Policy, “Labor in India: Market and Institution” in India’s Economic Problems and “Labor Market: Micro and Macro Aspects” contributed by Dr. Rohini P. Sinha. Dr. John G. Voyatzis is currently doing research on “Income Distribution and World Hunger” as Mr. James Luizer is currently researching “The Effect of Concentration on Teacher’s Salaries in Local Teacher Labor Markets”. Dr. James Marshall is currently writing a paper entitled “Stock Market Performance in the Inflationary 1970’s: A Review of Theoretical Explanations and the Empirical Evidence” for presentation at the 1983 annual meeting of the Eastern Economic Association and is nearing completion of the book entitled Financial Mathematics: Concepts and Applications. Mr. Serfass responded to the current economic times, “More Reaganomics so we have less inflation, lower interest rates and higher productivity.” A recent graduate of the Business Department reflects upon the knowledge gained during the past four years.

“As a double major I was able to concentrate my studies in Accounting while receiving a general understanding of the business world. I found it interesting to have a major in which book knowledge and real world situations were integrated. My education branched into many aspects of business which allowed me to gain a greater insight into my chosen field.”

POLITICAL SCIENCE

The Political Science department continues to stress in the regular courses and seminars contemporary socio-political problems affecting the U.S. and the larger international community. The U.S.-Soviet relationship, the issue of nuclear armaments, the nature of the modern American political economy, and the environmental problem are concerns reflected in ongoing classes. The department plans to continue with the team teaching of its Introduction to Political Science and the Introduction to American National Government courses. This well received approach enables the department to introduce its faculty members to freshmen at the introductory level. The department continues to seek to educate its students in all the major issues of our day.

"The rights of the individual versus the needs of society is, perhaps, the fundamental political question facing the modern era. This question manifests itself in the environmental problem, the conflict over national and international allocation of resources, the capitalist-socialist debate, and most other aspects of our increasingly interdependent world. The challenge of our time is to determine the proper balance between societal needs and individual liberty. The study of political science and political economy can provide the theoretical framework and the analytical tools necessary for any meaningful response to this challenge".

The History Department prides itself on teaching as a primary responsibility, and the faculty have all given lectures, professional and popular alike, in various forums. In the past year, the department members have been responsible for substantial publications. Dr. Wilson has been a co-editor of one book and author of another, and Dr. Baldrige has also published a book. Drs. Mortimer, Malsberger, Sterns and Van Eerde have published many scholarly articles. History at Muhlenberg is devoted to the education and enlightenment of its students.

"History has always intrigued me. Not until recently, however, have I begun to appreciate the reality of the suffering that has occurred in the past. Time cannot lighten the pain of the men and women who were the victims of yesterday's wars, famines and injustices. This awareness of the reality of foregone years has led me to look upon the present with a sympathetic eye, and has helped me to critically appraise the human consequences of contemporary human actions. Perhaps the greatest benefit, then, to be gained from the study of history is a clearer understanding of the present.

The Center for the Arts in a different light.

A large department in a small college, the English department offers students many specific topics of study and different approaches to literature. There has always been a strong commitment to teaching and to individual attention. To grow as a human being — psychologically, socially, intellectually, morally, and spiritually — is what should take place during your four years at Muhlenberg.

"It was an imagined world. We began on a cloudy morning with April showers sweet. Questions were probed — to be or not? Paradise was lost, then regained. Ginats were found among diminutives. The reach exceeded the grasp. We ended on a bright evening with April as the cruellest month. The world of the imagination shall endure."

-Jane Pavlacka

Why a person becomes an English major is a choice probably based on a desire to expand one's imagination, satisfy curiosity, and be well-read. Such purposes are ends in themselves.

SOCIOLOGY

he department of Sociology and Anthropology is doing some very interesting and exciting things these days. Students taking courses in research design and statistics can spend one semester designing a survey research project and then the next semester carrying it out. Students in the Delinquency and Criminology courses actually go to visit courts, prisons, detention facilities, probation and police departments. This gives sociology and social science students a real "hands on" exposure to and experience in the Criminal Justice system. The department also offers numerous fieldwork opportunities for students interested in social welfare and social work. Anthropology students have the opportunity to spend time in the field doing archaeological field excavations. The department also set up an Archaeological Conservation laboratory with senior Lorna Steele, and expanded its museum.

"The sociology and social work department is an experience in itself. The world is our laboratory in which we work".

RELIGION

The Religion department was quite active this past year, sponsoring such lecture series as "Death and Dying and Their Meaning for Life", discussions of freedom and evil by Dr. Ziedonis and of creation and evolution by Drs. Oplinger and Timm. The department celebrated the 800th Anniversary of the birth of St. Francis of Assisi with a Coffee and Fellowship series, "In the Spirit of Saint Francis", and an outdoor candlelight service commemorating St. Francis.

"I have learned that one's faith is more than a set of beliefs, but is a way of life which reflects one's personal relationship with God. I have discovered that how we interact with others reflects that relationship with God. Living closely with others in a college atmosphere and living out my faith in that closeness has been an invaluable benefit for my personal growth and for my preparation for the ministry."

"In philosophy we try to answer life's most fundamental and perplexing questions only to arrive at new questions. So I figured, if you can't beat it — major in it!"

-Mark Weinberg

COMMUNICATIONS

The Communications department at Muhlenberg has seen its number of majors triple in the past three years, which can be attributed to the development of the department itself. With the growth of Cinematique, more and more people in the college community are becoming involved with the department.

"Communications has always been a part of my life. But really, isn't it a part of all of us? That unique ability humans have to relate to each other and the world. (And in times like these we wonder how it all got so crazy). My major has been fundamental in making me a whole person. Now, after four years, I think I can understand what I'm really saying when I communicate".

-Amy Jordan

The Communications department seeks to develop students well-versed in the ever growing field of communication studies. Through such student-run groups as the International Association of Business Communicators, students are exposed to the real business world of communications through various speakers, industrial relations, and public relations.

It will be the basis for a computer literacy course for the education students and it will serve as a means for demonstration and exploring micro-computer applications in classroom teaching in elementary and secondary schools. Education students will have the opportunity to learn BASIC and PILOT languages, word processing, and graphics and music programming. All of these capabilities are being used in the classrooms for children of all ages. With this addition to the department, our future educators will be more adept in the classroom with a variety of situations and, just as important, a variety of students.

"Teaching children enables one not only to learn more about the children but to learn with them. One feels their mistakes as if they were one's own, and knowing that they must correct themselves with you becomes very gratifying. Their success becomes your success".

-Steve Digregorio

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

r. Arvids Ziedonis of the Foreign Languages department is working on his seventh book, on Karlis Skalbe, a twentieth century Latvian poet and story writer. In August 1983 he will be taking a group of Muhlenberg students and professionals to the Soviet Union for a study visit.

"In today's world, knowledge of more than one language is becoming increasingly advantageous. Muhlenberg's foreign language department not only aides in the development of language skills, it also opens the door to exploration of unique and fascinating cultures."

The Classics department was typically low-key this year, a small but well-loved section of Muhlenberg not usually in the spotlight. Reba Marblestone spent the summer and fall semester in Israel, travelling with her family. Dr. Wind attended a convention of classicists in Philadelphia. Eta Sigma Phi, the Classics society, conducted fund-raisers in the form of two very successful slave auctions, at which members of the college community were sold for such purposes as tutoring, cooking, and doing laundry.

"As a Classical Archaeology self-designed major, the Classics department was the core of my academics, yet offered me far more than mere courses during my years at Muhlenberg. It brought me a friend and mentor in Dr. Wind, a glimpse at ancient minds and emotions which added colour and feeling to cold archaeological facts, and through that glimpse the realization that man really hasn't changed much in two thousand years."

ART - THEATRE - MUSIC

he Art Department at MUHLENBERG COLLEGE saw many changes within the past year. Two new faculty members were Joe Elliott, the photography teacher and Thomas J. Hudspeth, our new gallery director and professor of 20th Century Art. A fine new addition to the display of student talent was evident in the Senior Art Show, consisting of the senior art majors showing their talents in various mediums. Our education in the arts was vitalized by special guest speakers bringing us the latest nuances to the Arts, such as Barry Blinderman from New York City, a director of the Semaphore Gallery and Greg Smith, an artist from New York, whose workshop and lecture on woodcuts enlightened all of us.

In the Gallery our senses were delighted with such shows as American Modernism 1910-1945, a display of selected oil paintings from the Ertegun Collection Group and Milton Avery on Paper, brought to us through the cooperation of Mrs. Sally Avery. Through the student run organization: Festival of the Arts the community enjoyed a display of top women gallery directors Paula Cooper, Nancy Hoffman, and Phyllis Kind. The Faculty Art Exhibition displayed the paintings of Raymond Barnes, the powerful photographic works of Joseph Elliott, and the whimsically delightful plaster-works of Carol Parker. This has been a truly exciting year of art for students, teachers and community alike, and we hope only an inkling of what's to come.

"Being an art major is a dirty job, but somebody has to do it."

Michael Greenwald

In the Fall of 1982 the faculty voted to establish a separate Drama Department and expanded the curriculum to include Acting, Lighting and Theater History. Thus raising the program to departmental status. Curtis Duetsch, Assistant Professor of Drama and Technical Director designed two productions for the Pennsylvania Stage Company "Desire Under the Elms" and "Born Yesterday" He was also elected to the Allentown Arts Commission.

The summer theater staged a production of "Iolanthe" and "Fiddler On The Roof"

"In four years we have been everything from pirates and maidens to Knights and ladies. We spend through time from the 400th BC with Antigone to 1984 and Last Gasp. We have built castles and torn them down and the only thing we have left of any of it is our memories Brecht and Ionesco, Dionysus and Apollo — whether we will ever be employed is a mystery yet to be solved. But one thing we have learned is that the study of theatre is the study of life."

Christa Ann Lofgran

A new edition to the Music Department is the percussion ensemble performing on a weekly basis headed by Dr. Earl Blackburn, a Professor at Moravian College and a professional himself

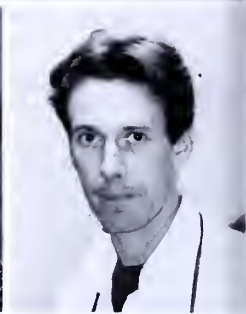

The Wind Ensemble performed off campus this past February in Bethlehem at the North Hampton Community College, and the jazz ensemble performed April 23rd in the Center for the Arts. Senior Recitals were presented by Todd Marsh, Ann Dyck, Tammy Stockton and Man-sze Hsiao on the piano.

Rick Wilson, President of the Band '82-'83 summarizes his feelings this way

"I think the best part of the band is that people from all different majors and aspects of campus come together and learn about team work. Each year we develop as an organization and arrive at a feeling of unity."

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The Athletic department has seen many exciting changes in the past year that will benefit our campus for years to come, including the opening of the new Life Sports Center, as well as the addition of a varsity Lacrosse team for women. There were some outstanding players and records this past year. The basketball season was 16-9. Victor Lea was inducted into the Muhlenberg Football Hall of Fame. Micky Mottola received the Vincent Mulvihill Courageous Player Award. And, Muhlenberg was represented by Fred Stoyer at the Nationals for Wrestling.

Bill Reiner and Curt Nagle put a halt to the Susquehanna runner. Reiner was the Mules' outstanding defensive lineman leading in team tackles 81, sacks 6, and fumble recoveries with 2.

Kirchenheiter, D. Butler, S. Luckenbill, B. Kistler.

Jeff Andrews dives for a pass. The freshman led the Mules with 23 receptions for 360 yards.

Above: The mainstays of the senior corps. Co-Captain Mickey Mottola (42) who rushed for 431 yards and 3 touchdowns as well as being the recipient of the Vincent Mulvihill Courageous Player Award. Co-Captain Chris Horton recorded 66 tackles and led the Mules with 4 interceptions and Harry Esposito who was tied for second with most tackles. Right: Mike Bailey led the Mules with 484 yards for a 4.3 average and caught 14 passes and scored 3 touchdowns.

Below: Three-year letter winner Dion Manhoff had an off year after a fine sophomore campaign.

SMALL PRODUCTION OF ALBUM IS A BIG SUCCESS

Album, by David Rimmer was MTA's first production of the year. The play was guest directed by Michael Costello, and starred Stephanie Schulze as Peggy, Lisa Walting as Trish, Darrah Ribble as Boo and Jeff Gilbert as Billy.

The play is about four teenagers growing up in the sixties. It deals with their music, sexuality and outlook on life. The play covers a number of years in the characters' lives tracing their growth and change.

For the production of Album the stage was turned around so that the audience sat on the stage itself. This was done to provide a more intimate atmosphere.

Sue Ellis works on the set construction for album

The Album cast contemplate the moon, the stars and the sun for no apparent reason.

Beneath two tons of hair and Texas dirt, D. Holder made his stage debut as the slimy Bernardino while the Duke and Pompey (Bob Debl) look on.

DEDICATION AND FINE PERFORMANCES

MAKE SHAKESPEARE'S MEASURE FOR MEASURE COME ALIVE

Shakespeare's classic, Measure for Measure was MTA's second production. The story centers around a man, Claudio (Hugh Colcott), who is condemned to death.

Guest artist Daniel Kremer (the Duke) was supported by 23 student actors, notably John Norris who played a villain ensnared in a web of religious hypocrisy. Cindy Cromer played the fair Isabella who sued for her brother's freedom. John Speridakos played a dashing young man, and Dave Lyons played a gentle Provost.

The play featured a multileveled set designed by Curtis Dretsch, which represented the stringent morals of the day, and was directed by Charles Richter.

The Cast of Measure in tableau as the Duke (Dan Kremer) is escorted to prison.

ONCE UPON A MATTRESS

Once Upon A Mattress is a fun-filled farce of the fabled "Princess and the Pea" story. Set in the once upon a time era, Once Upon a Mattress is one of the silliest musicals ever written.

The set for the show is probably the largest ever built on the Muhlenberg stage. The scenery pivoted around a revolving turntable that had three sets. It rose thirty feet in the air with all its towers and splendor.

The cast of forty students sang and danced during the rousing "Opening for a Princess."

The costumes held all the medieval magic and every color imaginable. A bright, fast paced show, Mattress captured the audiences attention.

The show was also the farewell performances for two very active MTA members, John Norris and Christa Lofgren. Both played endearing warm hearted characters that entertained the audience and won them over.

Eric Boies (Dauntless) shows his eternal devotion to his mother, Queen Aggrivan (Dorothy Shapland).

Christa Lofgren (Dauntless) in "Happily Ever After."

This terrific trio of Gary Thompson (minstrel) and Doug Girton was lead by Senior John Norris (King). This was John's last MTA show but his first good guy part with almost no lines!

Junior Jeff Gilbert and freshman Stephanie Schulze teamed up again as Sir Harry and Lady Larken to sing "In A Little While."

While trying to coax his donkey in spanish, Dr. Lopez watches the floor get closer and closer.

Seeing all other means of coaxing the donkey to move in the direction he wishes, Dr. Timm attempts to pull him to the basket.

WHO MADE ASSES OF WHOM?

FACULTY DEFEATS STUDENTS 16-12 IN DONKEY BASKETBALL

The Student Council sponsored a donkey Basketball game, pitting the faculty against the students. The game provided an opportunity for all team members to make real asses of themselves.

The faculty team under the brave (but reluctant) hand of coach Betsy Caplan combined the talents of Kurt Thiede (a past Donkey-ball champ), Tim Cox (an experienced rider), Drs. Al Kipa, Jose Lopez, and John Pearce (who all tried unsuccessfully to coax their donkeys in a variety of languages) and Drs. John McCarthy and Irvin Schmoyer who spent much of the game begging their donkeys to stand. Other team members who helped the faculty team to a 16-12 victory were, Dr. Marsha Baar, Ray Baynes, George Gibbs, Dr. Ralph Graber, Bill Henry, and Dr. Alton Slane. Bob Clark gracefully relinquished his team position, opting for benchwarmer early in the first quarter.

Real assets to the student team were council representatives Mike and Morris Cohen, Alice Mader and Tildy Burke. The rest of the student team consisted of Cindy Kampf, Rob Berman, Dan Ely, Anne Stadtlander, Beth Unger, Marian Cohen, Tom Giardana, Cathy Leuken, Donna Maack, Joan Marmola, Todd Marsh, Joan Minieri, Chris O'Neill, Donna Prisyun, Eileen Riker, Ken Rubin, Marianne Stoekl, and Jon Wolf.

The students made a good showing despite being outplayed by the faculty. Coach Butch Leiber was surprised at his teams 16-12 defeat but believed that his team played well enough to win. Several spectators did; however, question who played the asses.

BEHIND THE SCENES EFFORT MAKE ORIENTATION A SUCCESS

Integrating freshmen into the day to day life of college is a difficult task. At Muhlenberg College it is done with a good deal of consideration and hard work on the part of many people. The work falls primarily on the office of admissions and the Orientation Committee. The heads of the Orientation Committee this year were Melanie Nika and Marian Cohen.

The Orientation Committee and the Office of admissions began work on preparations for freshman orientation in the preceding spring semester. Their biggest task lies in organizing the three day orientation period for freshmen at the beginning of the semester. Melanie Mika was pleased with the success of the program this year and feels that it does a great deal in helping the freshmen adjust to college life.

Scenes like this were a common part of the "Playfair" event.

On the first day of orientation freshmen are introduced to their advisors and advising groups.
After consulting her freshman advisees, a student advisor decides her group's next activity.

A summer advising and course selection session enabled the freshmen to select their courses and seek the advice of faculty members.

The Playfair part of the orientation program allowed advisors and freshmen alike to express their inner selves.

A capacity crowd filled the stadium to watch the Mules Play Gettysburg.

A GAME, A QUEEN, AND A BALLOON MAKE A DAY TO REMEMBER HOMECOMING '82

WHAT I LIKE ABOUT YOU

THE ROMANTICS PLAY TO A PACKED MEMORIAL HALL

After a year of battling the administration, in particular Dr. Now, regarding the scheduling of concerts, the Muhlenberg concert committee finally presented the student body with a show in March. The bill was headlined by THE ROMANTICS and included SINGLE BULLET THEORY AND CRISIS.

Following the two opening acts, THE ROMANTICS took the stage and played to a near capacity crowd for about two hours. Consisting of Jimmy Marinos, Wally Palmer, Mike Skill and Rich Cole, THE ROMANTICS had the crowd on its feet for the entire show which climaxed with the closing number "What I Like About You" their smash hit from their 1979 debut album.

(We all deserve it, don't we?!)

Congratulations!

We arrived as excited, scared, curious, adventurous freshman, and from there it all started to grow. We had roommates, we learned how to live with each other. We lived with our own peers, it was a whole new challenge. There were the parties, the late night pizza pig-outs, the painting of Victors Lament, many times over, there were the long lines on the Union hall to meals, and there were, yes, the long nights of studying too. Lest we forget what we originally came here for-to expand our minds, broaden our horizons . . . to become educated. Sure we worked, but we also played just as hard, and we'll never forget, from the group activities we participated in to our senior year Frisbee tournies and lounging on the library steps. The years were difficult, and for the most part, hard to appreciate them fully, but now, as seniors we sit back after graduation and reflect on all we've done, all the friends we've made, and the realization that all too soon we must say farewell to the Muhlenberg Experience. It truly was an experience none of us will forget and with a bit of the past to remind us, somehow it all won't seem so far away. Our yearbook Ciarla 1983 is a little something to help us remember the "Experience." We would like to thank all of the Class of '83 for being a part of this yearbook.
